

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

The legislatures of a number of Western states are now considering a form of legislation of so much importance that it is worthy of national attention.

Bills have been introduced providing for the establishment of school savings banks under the supervision of the school authorities. The capital stock of these banks is to be divided into shares not to exceed $1 each and no person shall own more than 100 shares. It is the understanding, of course, that the stock will be purchased by pupils and teachers. These banks do not pay interest on deposits, but the capital stock may be invested in any safe interest bearing securities such as war savings stamps or other similar securities which may be reconverted into cash upon short notice. Deposits from a single depositor shall not exceed $100 at one time. Regular check books will be issued to the depositors. When an individual deposit reaches a sum sufficient to start an interest bearing savings account in any bank that receives such savings deposits, the amount shall be transferred to such banks.

The proposed legislation also includes provision for compulsory instructions in thrift.

While the school savings bank has been in successful operation for a great many years, the legislation now proposed in the West, particularly in the

Call or Demand Loans Rise to Nine Per Cent, Their Highest Figure in Almost Three Months

New York, Feb. 6.—The second month of the year in the financial market opened with a perceptible tightening of credits. A negligible volume of business and consequent reduction of quoted values throughout the list.

Call or demand loans rose to nine per cent, the highest figures in almost three months. The advance was probably due, according to well informed authorities, to the steady reduction of local reserves by interior banks. There were concurrent advances in interest and red-scount rates on federal reserve bonds.

Shorts frequently recalled themselves of further adverse industrial conditions to depress popular issues. Long prices for raw and refined products suggested a marked readjustment of estimates in the oil trade.

Insurees' earnings, threats of labor troubles and intermittent delays in the settlement of claims of transportation systems against the government militated against railway shares.

Apart from occasional upward spurts in the transcontinental group, notably P. & P. lines.

Increasing credits strain added to the heavy tone of various steel and equipment stocks. Companies controlling miscellaneous specialties, submitted financial statements which suffered in comparison with similar exhibits of the corresponding period last year.

A confident tone pervaded the investment market, bankers experiencing little difficulty in disposing of new capital offerings, these in the aggregate assuming impressive dimensions. Pre-war bond issues of the important railroads also improved, but Liberty and victory issues eased.

Movements of foreign exchange were obscured by divergent views arising from the proposed reparations terms imposed by Germany. It is understood that plans for refunding French obligations in this country are gradually crystallizing.

Discovered She Had Negro Blood, Now Seeks Divorce

Mrs. Mary LeFevre of San Francisco, strikingly beautiful and possessor of charming old South manners, said in her petition for divorce, filed recently, that two years after her marriage to Frederick LeFevre, Louisiana planter, she discovered there was negro blood in her veins. This, she felt, was an insurmountable barrier, for her pride equaled that of her husband's for his family name. She said her husband pleaded with her to forget it, but this she is unable to do, after consulting scientists, who said the negro strain might come to the surface generations ahead.

WAIL IS OLD ONE

Complaint About H. C. L. Has Been Heard for Ages.

At Least Eighteen Hundred Years Ago the Natives of Egypt "Kicked" on Prices of Food.

It is interesting to learn from a papyrus in the museum of the University of Pennsylvania, by which inscription many important archeological finds have been made in the old world, that the high cost of living and excessive freight rates were issued at least 1,800 years ago, and it is a peculiar coincidence that the complaint arose in Philadelphia, a name closely allied to that of Philadelphia, which like other American cities, has been wrestling with the cost of food and the rates on anthracite coal.

It seems as if there is nothing new under the sun; that the same issues prevail, and that the same struggle is being waged.

However, it seems certain that we ourselves are much better off than the felahs of Egypt in the apostolic age, or even than the small landed proprietors, who had to pay as much freight "as the traffic would bear" for transportation on the Nile.

We get a glimpse of life under the Ptolemies in Egypt, when the country was drained to furnish items of food. It is an amazing thing that in the Fayoum district, which is a little pocket at the westward of the Nile, flimsy records on papyrus should have been preserved to this day. This is only possible in a land of perpetual dryness. Egypt has thriven without rain through ten millenniums, because the necessary water comes not from the skies, but along the Nile from the center of Africa.

Eight centuries may seem a long time to us, but at the time the complaint of freight rates was mentioned there had been at least 5,000 years of recorded history in Egypt and undoubtedly many millenniums which have left no record.

The poor felahs, the acinal cultivators of the soil, comprised a sort of patient animal who had become inured to oppression and greed and who never had the slightest opportunity for self-development until within the period embracing the last 30 years, when the British government set him on his feet and gave him not only freedom from lashings by the court bash, from compulsory labor on the ditches, from extra taxation, but permitted him to accumulate a little something on his own account and to be come more than a tool of the officials.

Enjoyable Card Party.

Last Thursday evening a card party under the auspices of the Village Improvement society, was held in the Delhi opera house for the benefit of the chocolate fund of the Delhi High school. There were 55 tables and the business men of the village donated the prizes. Refreshments were served and a pleasant time was enjoyed by all. A good sum was realized.

LICENSE FEES FOR AUTOS.

For passenger cars and motor truck owners of the United States last year paid but the huge sum of $8,529,822 in license fees to 40 various states, according to recent computations. Approximately 80 per cent of this amount, or about $5,500,000, goes into the construction of good roads, highway authorities say. In other words, about 3,000 miles of high grade hard-surfaced highways could be built with the amount paid by the country's motorists.

The 1920 total exceeds that of 1919 by more than 33 1/2 per cent, the total in 1919 having been only $6,512,325. This large difference is accounted for by the larger number of machines now in use and also by the fact that many states have laid a heavier burden on the car owner by increasing the yearly fees.

Striking an average for the entire country, each motorist paid in license fees about $19.50, the total number of registrations having been 9,250,532. In 1919, when 7,694,016 cars were registered, the average was less than $9.

The largest amount paid to any one state was paid by New York motorists, the total being $8,113,103. Iowa had the second largest total, $7,357,520. Pennsylvania was third with $6,324,941; Ohio fourth with $6,509,000, and California fifth with $5,529,119.

Twenty-four states, or just half the total number, showed totals of $1,000,000 or more. Nevada received from her 10,464 motorists only $103,197, hardly enough to pay for more than three miles of improved highway. Delaware, which ranks second from the bottom in the number of cars owned, received $322,697.

It is interesting to note that practically all the southern states showed large increases in the amount of fees received. This forecasts extensive progress in good road work in that section during the next few years. Many states in the south are supplementing the money received from license fees with substantial bond issues, thereby making even greater progress possible.

Comparison of the total license fees of the various states with the number of machines which they have registered shows a lack of uniformity in the license laws, says the B. T. Goodrich News Bureau. Iowa, for instance, which ranked second in the amount of license fees, ranks sixth in the number of cars owned. It has only two-thirds the number of cars of Ohio or Pennsylvania and 100,000 less than California. Florida received only half as much as Alabama although it has 1,000 more machines, the totals being $54,935 and $1,041,225, respectively. Connecticut with 119,087 cars received $1,327,431, while Colorado with 125,940 received only $18,774.

HELPING ON INCOME RETURNS

Representative of State Bureau to Visit Oneonta and Other Towns of Otsego.

Palmer W. Goo of the Utica office of the New York State Income Tax Bureau will be at the Chamber of Commerce in Oneonta, on February 19 to March 5 inclusive, to assist taxpayers in making out their income tax returns. An opportunity will be provided citizens to clear up all income tax questions and to have explained to them new and important features of the law.

It is the plan of District Director Goff to give the people of his district every possible aid in making out their tax returns, and it is expected that citizens will not hesitate to call and talk over perplexing questions.

If any points are doubtful in regard to deductions, etc., it is urged that taxpayers bring with them the necessary records in order that the individual cases can be gone over in detail. No charge of any kind will be made for the services of the income tax expert.

The last day for paying the state income tax this year is April 15, instead of March 15, as heretofore.

Mr. Goo will also be at Cherry Valley National bank, February 15-16; Bank of Worcester, February 17-18; Cooperstown Chamber of Commerce, March 1-9 inclusive; Richfield Springs, First National Bank, March 10-12 inclusive.

At the Bankers' Convention.

There was a large attendance at the annual meeting of Group Five, New York State Bankers' Association, held Saturday afternoon and evening at the TenEyck hotel in Albany. Excellent addresses were given both at the afternoon session at which William H. Baekert of Albany was re-elected president, and at the evening banquets at which the speakers were Rev. James S. Kittell of the First Reformed church of Albany, and John Kendrick Banks, the well-known humorist. In addition to the eleven representatives of Oneonta banks named in The Star of Saturday, the following were present from this vicinity: F. A. Kirby of the First National Bank of Binghamton, George E. Crippen of the Bank of Worcester, Frank Lewis of the First National Bank of Cooperstown, E. D. Gandy of the Cooperstown National Bank and F. D. Sprague of the Second National bank of that village.

Miss Holmes Given Shower.

About 50 young friends of Miss Vera Holmes of Ford avenue met at the home of Mrs. Mervil Howard, 215 Broad street, Saturday evening, in honor of the coming marriage of Miss Holmes and Harry Howard, both of this city. The evening was spent with cards, music and games. During the evening, Miss Holmes was presented with a number of presents, consisting of cut glass, linen and silver. At a late hour, felicitous refreshments were served and all departed extending best wishes to Miss Holmes.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

A Tribute to Charles R. O'Connor. Current information is that an extraordinary scandal is about to break in connection with the prohibition enforcement situation in New York city and state. This is probably true, since the prohibition enforcement situation in this region would be a joke if it were not a crime. Yet it must be said that Charles R. O'Connor, the supervising agent of the New York district, is entitled to a say in this connection. He is too square and has had to be concerned in any way with what is right and wrong that has occurred. —[Kirkegaard's Press.]

Prophecies.

The latest output of prediction from certain prophets declares that the list of President-Elect Harding does not now include the name of a single person conspicuously identified with the progressive wing of the Republican party which supported the candidates of Gutzlaf Wood, Senator Johnson (who appealed to the radical progressives) and Herbert Hoover. It is safe to assume this guess is baseless.

Mr. Harding is too seasoned in public affairs, too familiar with the way American public opinion reacts, too desirous of securing a legitimate success for his administration to surrender himself to the guidance of those who in cloakrooms and hotel lobbies are boastfully pretending that they have captured his attention.—[New York Tribune.]

Poor Support for Hungarian Throne.

Dispatches from Rome assure a pitiful world that everybody in Hungary wants a monarchy. Just who inspires this interesting information is not, of course, revealed. Apparently it is propaganda designed to prepare the way for the return of a monarchy.

It is several months now since Bela Kun and his soviet government were thrown out. It is quite likely that a large number of Hungarians do want a monarchy; it is quite likely that they will get one.

But since the country is practically bankrupt, and since thousands of the former adherents of Bela Kun are still to be reckoned with, any head that wears the Hungarian crown will have a decidedly uneasy resting place.—[Binghamton Press.]

A Great Discovery.

How to save on boys' clothes is the information set forth in a heat-the-cost-of-living article. It may be a highly effective method, but a shorter one is to have only girls in the family.—[Kansas City Star.]

Were They Happy Ever After?

A newly-married lady was being interviewed by the reporter of the local newspaper just after the ceremony. "And after the honeymoon, where do you intend to settle down?" was his final question. "At the old manse," said the bride, as she hurried away. The reporter thought it sounded unusually familiar, but he decided to use it. When it appeared in print the report finished up: "After the honeymoon the happy couple intend to live at the old man's."

The $25 Suit.

When the $25 suit, made well and made of good material, is offered the consumer, we can look for a big business from a class of men who have been making their old clothing go for the past two years. This is the great middle class of our country who have been very little benefited by the profligate wages, but who have been terribly hard hit by the higher cost of living, and have found it necessary to curtail to the extreme to keep out of debt.—[Fiber and Fabric.]

What is Normal?

"Return to normal" does not mean, cannot mean, merely the elimination of disagreeable conditions, with retention of all agreeable ones. It means restoration of the normal ratio of the agreeable to the disagreeable things of life, in which the former predominate, but the latter never dwindle to negligible proportions. One might as well expect always fair weather as to look for a time of life without tribulations and with all things enjoyable diminished.—[Albany Journal.]

Jail Business Picks Up.

The city jail had more than its usual quota of inmates last night, and Judge Huntington will have quite a string of prisoners before him this morning. Two unknown wanderers who appeared to have no fixed purpose other than to be idle were arrested on a charge of vagrancy and will be arraigned today.

Arthur Lee, a name not unfamiliar to police court records, was arrested near the Hathaway house last evening, and placed in jail to sober up. This is Lee's first "spree" since winter came on, which is rather a good record for him. To keep him sociable in jail, were two men who called at headquarters last night and asked for a night's lodgings.

Only one man was arraigned before Judge Huntington Saturday morning—Horatio Rosecrans of Bloomingville, who was arrested Friday night by Officer O'Dell. He pleaded guilty to the charge of public intoxication and was fined $10.

Nelson Butts Surprised on Birthday.

About 45 of the young friends of Nelson Butts gathered at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Butts, 5 Lewis avenue, Saturday night, reminding him that the occasion was his twelfth birthday. The party was arranged without the slightest knowledge of the young man and so he was surprised when his friends called on him in such large numbers as during it milled. Nelson proved equal to the occasion, however, and soon had his guests engaged with games and other diversions. The evening passed all too quickly with mirth and dancing and it was with regret that an hour later the happy company broke up and left for home, after wishing Nelson many more happy birthdays.

Nelson received a large number of presents from his young friends to help him remember the occasion in days to come.

It is proposed to manufacture medicinal and pharmaceutical preparations, and to deal in farm and dairy supplies, etc. The capital stock is $10,000, consisting of shares of ten dollars each, and it will begin business with $500 capital.

The county agent is prizing his worth by insisting that farmers shall know about their own fields, and whenever a farmer states that he doesn't think he has any smut, the county agent and a few of the neighbors take a small barrel hoop and go out into the growing field, counting one hundred stalks just as they come into the ring and keeping the others out. Then these stalks are closely examined and the percentage of smutted heads is noted.

FORMER CONVICT SOUGHT

AUTHORITIES LOOKING AFTER DOUGLAS BANKS AS JOHN-SON SLAYER.

Banks, a fugitive from justice, answers description of the man seen near scene of murder—Officer Abel seeking to trail clothing of yeggman.

District Attorney Ward Truestell of Norwich, in charge of the search for the slayer of Lewis H. Johnson, murdered in Johnson's general store and postoffice at Nineveh Junction last Sunday morning has received new clues in the case which it is believed establish the identity of the slayer beyond question.

Cues obtained from a lumber camp in the vicinity of the crime and evidence left behind by the fugitive on the scene of the murder and during his flight which the authorities have been checking up since the murder last Sunday, indicate that the man they are looking for may be Douglas Banks, a former convict and a fugitive from justice on a charge of murdering another man at Parksville, New Liberty.

Since the murder a man who answers to the description of Banks and to the description of the suspect obtained from Charles Christian, an elderly farmer living near Nineveh Junction at whose house the fugitive asked for something to eat, has been missing from the lumber camp which is located in the vicinity of Nineveh.

Banks formerly lived in Norwich and according to the district attorney, his wife is living there now. This leads to the belief that Banks was in the vicinity of Nineveh Junction as he is a fugitive from justice, being sought as a suspect in the Parksville murder. He could easily have communicated with his wife while working at the lumber camp not a great distance from Norwich.

Banks served a term in Elmira reformatory in 1903 on minor charges and a term at Atlanta prison which began in 1912 for a postoffice robbery. A man named Nash, after living at Parksville near Liberty, was murdered last August and Banks was suspected. Since the murder Banks has not returned to his home in Norwich openly, according to the authorities, but it is believed that he has been working at the lumber camp near there to be near his home, and enable him to make secret visits to his family.

Officer Abel Skeptical.

Lieut. Otto Abel, of the D. & H. force, who has been giving valuable aid at Nineveh in the search for the yeggman, was at his home here Saturday night but returned to Nineveh yesterday morning. He has been entrusted with the task of investigating the ownership of the gloves, mittens and khaki trousers left by the murderer in the Johnson store the night of the crime. It is believed that if the place where these articles were purchased can be found that it may be possible to learn the identity of their owner.

Officer Abel is inclined to the belief that the murderer of Johnson is not an experienced yeggman but a "cheap skater." Many of the circumstances would sustain this opinion. Banks is considered one who would be involved in big jobs and one not likely to undertake to rob a country store at Nineveh.

Chief Horton Returns.

Chief Frank N. Horton has returned from Nineveh, having been engaged most of the week assisting the Chenango county authorities in efforts to find the Nineveh murderer. He could not be seen yesterday, being engaged in investigation of other matters attached to the local department. It is understood that he will not return to Nineveh unless his presence there is requested by District Attorney Truestell, who is personally directing the search for the yeggman and who has not yet despaired of apprehending the offender.

Many Miles Away?

An official of the D. & H. company, while not wishing to be quoted, yesterday declared that while he had no information of any kind he fears that the man sought is now many miles from the scene of the crime. At least two trains left Nineveh within an hour after the crime and it is quite probable that the offender managed to secrete himself in a car on one of these trains out of sight of any of the train crew and may have reached some place where he would find a companion in crime who would make short work of removing the handcuffs, provided the man himself had not managed to free himself from them before leaving the car.

THREE MONTHS IN EUROPE

Arthur Seybold Visits Italy, France, Belgium and Great Britain. Arthur Seybold, son, left Oneonta Sunday morning for New York city, whence he sails on Friday next via the Italian line steamship, Guiseppi Verdi, for Genoa, touching, however, at Palermo and Naples. The party, which consists of Mr. Seybold and his aunt and cousin, Mrs. J. C. Jordan and Miss Irene Jordan of Middletown, will, after a brief sojourn in Italy, motor through Southern France, stopping at Monte Carlo, the Riviera and Marseilles, thence to Dijon and by rail to Paris, where they will spend a week. Later they visit Luxembourg, Antwerp, Brussels and the historic battlefields of France and Belgium, going about April 1 to England for a two weeks' sojourn. They will probably be absent about three months.

Mrs. Seybold accompanied her husband as far as New York and will remain with the party until its departure.

Mrs. McQueen Laid to Rest.

The funeral of Mrs. William McQueen, who died at the Fox Memorial hospital last Wednesday night after a brief illness of quinsy, was held Saturday afternoon at the family apartments in the Butts block, 256 Main street, with a good attendance of sorrowing relatives and friends. Owing to the illness of Dr. Johns, the services were conducted by Dr. C. S. Pendleton, pastor of the Main Street Baptist church, who spoke many comforting words to the bereaved ones. There was an unusually beautiful display of floral tributes, including in addition to those from neighbors and friends, pieces from Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the fourth grade of the Academy Street school. Following the services at the home, the body was taken to Morris for burial in the village cemetery.

Among those present at the funeral were William B. Allen, LaVern Lull, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sargent, of Morris; Mrs. Leon Wells of South New Berlin, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Rauf of Otego; Duane Mudge of Johnson City, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Williams of Whitehall.

According to M. Reinach's ancient informer, Lycurgus visited the Druid priests in their mountain caves and forest haunts and found them busy training the natives of Gaul to preserve their country against its enemies, teaching children to perform their tasks and later instructing them in the arts and sciences of their time. Lycurgus apparently received some good tips from the forest priests of his Iberian Gaul, for it was some years after his return to Greece that the valor of the Spartan youths first began to make its appearance.
